“ My deepest sorrow for Sarina Laviano. John and Sarina were my second set of parents, given the fact that I reminded John Laviano of their daughter, Mary, while my family was brought to the US. I fortuitously met Angie Laviano while interviewing for Ayco in 1980 and became a member of the family when we coincidentally met over an Easter dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Laviano's house. The best cooking very. Sarina is kind, generous and giving. She loved all of her children equally and loved even more her grandchildren. During the countless times I stayed at their house, I felt like I was part of the family, and have continued to feel so during all of these years when we have been apart. I have been fortunate to have kept in touch with Carmella, and had hoped through my travels to be able to visit. My regret is that I did not. My love to the entire family knows no bounds. I hoped that Sarina died in peace with her loved ones around her. Many kisses and prayers are being extended by Mike and I.. We are so sad. And John, I miss your home made wine :)
